

New Version of muveeNow Software Features Improved Video File Sharing Capabilities Powered by YouSendIt

Integrated YouSendIt service lets users send large muvee files over the Internet

Singapore and New York – September 26, 2007 – muvee, the pioneer and leader in instant home movies, has teamed up with YouSendIt, Inc., the trusted global leader in digital content delivery, to enhance the email feature in the latest version of muveeNow PC software for digital cameras. Available today, muveeNow 2.2 fully integrates YouSendIt's online file delivery services, enabling people to send their muvees via email directly from within the muveeNow application.

"We give users the power to create and share compelling productions from their personal media with just a few clicks," said Terence Swee, muvee's CEO. "Integrating YouSendIt's service greatly enhances the sharing experience, as users will no longer need to launch a separate email program or worry about clogging up someone's inbox with large attachments."

"Finally muvee users have an easy and worry-free solution to send files of all sizes without the hassles associated with email bounce-backs or the expenses of using overnight courier services," said Ranjith Kumaran, founder of YouSendIt.

muveeNow is easy-to-use companion software for digital cameras that helps people create instant home movies in just three steps. Users simply select their pictures and video clips, add in their own music and choose a themed style from the eight templates that are included with muveeNow. Using muvee's patented automatic video editing technology, the software generates a finished video by cutting highlights of the user's photos and video in time to the music with synchronized visual effects based on the chosen style. muvees can be previewed in full-screen, instantly remade using different media and styles and saved in a variety of popular formats for computer playback, email, online sharing and DVD burning.

muveeNow 2.2, featuring the integrated YouSendIt service, costs $29.95 and is now available in 13 languages at www.muvee.com. Users of earlier versions of muveeNow can download the latest version for free.
